THE SENIOR CLASS

INDUCTION . . . U. S. GRANT '38 - '39

The freshman year is always one of confusion and the members of this class found it true to form. Experiences such as those of different rooms for each class, lockers, etc., were new and added to the confusion. Other than these, though, the class noticed no great change from grade school life; but it certainly felt different to say, "I'm in high school."

REPLACEMENT . . . W. H. S. '39 - '40

The sophomore year was one of sharp contrast to the freshman year, for the class was then enrolled at W.H.S. Each member had a large part in making decisions concerning class activities.

Despite the many interruptions . . . days missed because of lack of heat, insufficient water supply, the noise of construction . . . school life went on smoothly. The grand finale was a picnic at Roosevelt Lake.

MANEUVERS . . . '40 - '41

The junior year was very interesting because there was always some kind of action. Early in the year, the class chose a ring and orders began to arrive in January. Next came the Junior Play and various sales and drives; later, another play, and finally the Junior-Senior Prom with Hawaiian decorations and fried chicken.

CALL TO ACTION . . . '41 - '42

The goal . . . graduation . . . is in sight. Beyond that, a battle. The knowledge gained through maneuvers will be put to test. A real battle exists, not a sham with problems from books, but real, living problems to be solved. This battle is the battle of life.

The seniors of '42 will meet the requirements. They will strive to preserve the ideals of democratic living and make an "all-out" effort to uphold and defend the democratic form of government.

THE JUNIOR CLASS

When Washington High School was opened in 1939, the three upper classes were made up of students who had attended high school in Portsmouth. The Junior Class of this year, 1942, was the first Freshmen Class at Washington and next year will be the first graduating class to have completed four years here.

The Freshmen Class of 1939-40 adapted itself very well to the new school and several clubs were organized, many of which still exist. There were skating parties where everyone enjoyed himself . . . up or down.

Last year, these same students were more active, being better acquainted with high school life and not being called "Freshie" by every upper classman. The Sophomore Class ranked high scholastically, also athletically, producing some of the basketball team's best players.

The third year of school is one of the busiest, for plays must be given and money obtained for the Junior-Senior Prom and Banquet. The students of the Junior Class have responded magnificently to their duties. A successful play called "Tempest and Sunshine", directed by Mrs. Donley, was presented and produced a great amount of money in the class treasury. In March, a skating party was held at the rink. The second play, "The Hoosier Schoolmaster", was another amusing and successful comedy. A fitting closure for the year was the Junior-Senior Prom.

The members of the JuniorClass are looking forward to next year being seniors and having all the accorded seniority rights. They will do their best to uphold the standards of Washington.

The heavier part of dramatics in Washington High School is done by the Junior Class. Until this year very little experience in dramatics has been offered to Freshmen and Sophomores, therefore the Junior class must study, develop technique, and present two full length three-act plays.

The plays chosen for this year's presentation were both based on novels of the same name that were best sellers several decades ago and have retained their popularity to the present day. "Tempest and Sunshine", based on Mary J. Holmes famous novel, was presented on December 4, before the largest audience that had ever attended a play at Washington Rural High. "The Hoosier Schoolmaster", based on Edward Eggleston's novel, was chosen for the spring production.

THE SOPHOMORE CLASS

After graduating from elementary school, the Freshmen enlisted as new members of Washington High School. These privates had reached a period in life for which they had striven earnestly; that of being a high school student.

As new recruits, these amateurs were "green horns" in performing certain tasks which were demanded by those students of superior rank. They contributed largely to the loyalty and ever increasing morals, were well represented in clubs, and produced several outstanding students, both scholastically and athletically.

When school began in the fall of 1941, these recruits started under a new title, being ranked then as "Sophomores". They showed more independence and saw new responsibilities; they were more capable of managing the affairs of the class and as a result of this ability, the newly promoted recruits sponsored these booths in the Fall Festival . . . "Barrels of Fun", "Darts" and the "Noise Makers", all of which were genuine successes.

In January, a "President's Birthday Party" was given. This party was a very successful enterprise with its many games, cake walk, and eats.

THE FRESHMAN CLASS

Most of the past year has been spent by these rookies in getting acquainted with the surroundings at Washington High. By the end of those nine months, however, they are "full-blooded" Washingtonians.

The freshman class was represented by four students in the "All School" play; Loretta Meyers, Vivian Woods, June Moore, and Jack Handel. They are to be complimented highly for their fine work there.

Also contributing to freshmen activities are the Latin Club, Home Economics Club, and the English Club. Many good times were had at the meetings of these organizations.

The freshman basketball team shows several promising reserve players for next year. A record of their activities is given on page 58.

The most important single function for the freshmen was a party at Christmas time.

Second period typing class.

The commercial department is under the direction of Miss Binns and Miss Bennett. Miss Binns teaches Typing I, Shorthand II, economics, business law, and Bookkeeping I: Miss Bennett teaches Typing II, Shorthand I, Bookkeeping II, and Business English.

There are approximately 145 students enrolled in the commercial department. The equipment includes typewriters, a mimeograph, individual bookkeeping lockers, etc.

The results of past year's commercial scholarship test proved very gratifying when the students of Washington placed first in the county in Typing II and Shorthand I. All the commercial subjects are represented this year in the scholarship test at Washington.

The commercial department aims to prepare students to take positions in business offices, to acquaint students better with business principles, and to teach students to be neat and accurate in all business dealings.

These are some of the war cries which are heard every day. And who is to do this sewing and cooking? This is the purpose of the home economics department under the supervision of Miss Hagen and Mrs. Arlington.

Many new "bundles" have been fashioned by the girls of this department who are eager to learn how to do their part and do it well in the clothing and dietary problems of our country.

The home economics students have made home furnishings, skirts and blouses, and have prepared menus for all occasions.

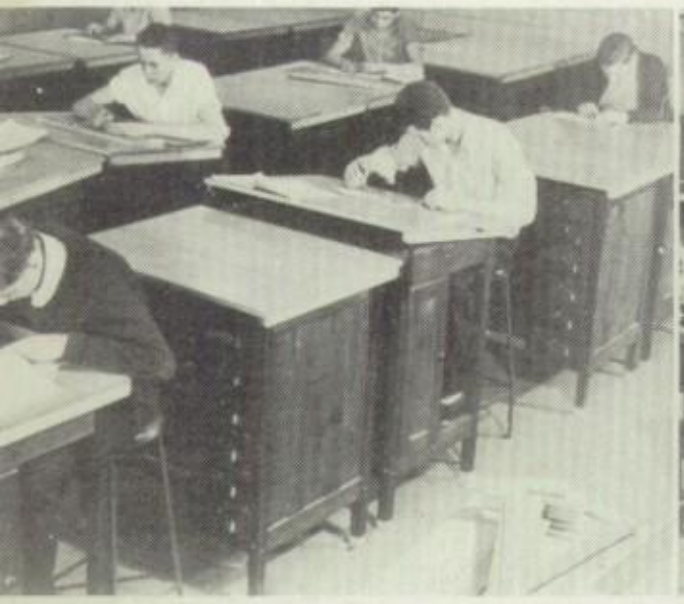
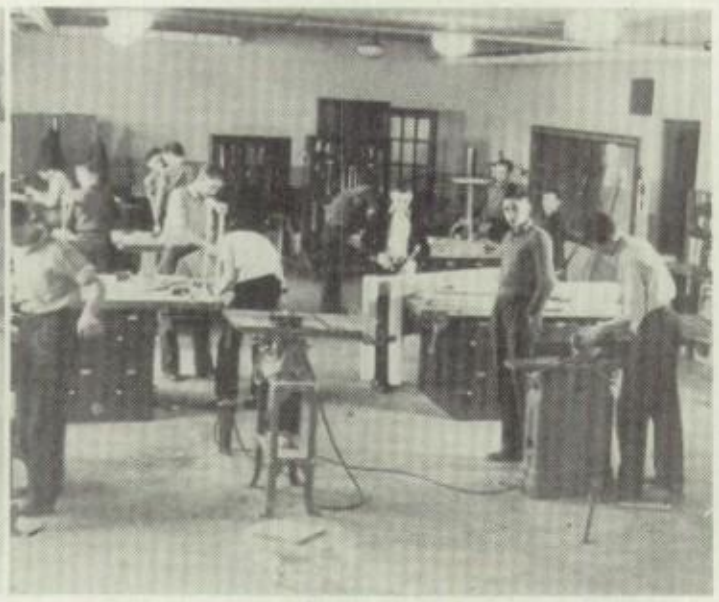
Craftsmen vital to Industry





"Work, Work, Work"

A total of 108 boys may be found in four periods of industrial arts.

Next . . . Third period in the shop.

Under the able direction of Mr. Pfleger, the Industrial Arts department has made many advancements during the past year. Many useful and beautiful articles have been turned out.

At the beginning of the term, classes were told to decide upon some piece of furniture as their first project. Plans were drawn before actual work was begun. This gave the young craftsmen valuable experiences in applying their ideas to paper and later to the materials.

The experiences gained by these boys in fashioning the many products of the Industrial Arts department will prove to be invaluable. Now, more than ever before in this country's history, men are needed who can use the tools of industry accurately and efficiently.

These students gain an appreciation of the problems of production, a knowledge of materials to be used, and an understanding of many processes in working with woods, metals, electricity, drawing, and planning.

Two periods of physical education each week are required for boys and girls of the freshman and sophomore classes. The pictures here show some of the many activities. Learning to work together by seeing the values of team work is considered a very important part of this work. Mr. Christian is the instructor.

After the regular basketball season, Mr. Fenton conducts a program of intramural basketball, using the same rules of eligibility that apply to student participation in all school activities.

"The person who can use the mother tongue fluently, accurately, and effectively in the expression of his thoughts has a power and possession that will serve him at every turn."

The importance of the study of English cannot be over-emphasized, for it is undoubtedly one of the most useful courses any school could offer. English is the medium through which we express our ideas and emotions, and in this great country where freedom of speech is an inalienable right, it is even more important that we speak correctly. In high school, English is the basis for all other subjects.

Very often the question is asked, "Why study Latin?" Latin is closely correlated with the study of English. It will be very useful in everyday life, because it is conducive to a better understanding of English and to increased ability to speak and write it effectively; a clearer knowledge of grammatical relationships, which will make easier the learning of modern foreign languages; a knowledge of the source of French and Spanish, which will add to the understanding of and the interest in these languages; a knowledge of many of the technical words which must be used in professional work; a knowledge of the manner in which one of the most famous peoples of ancient times expressed their thoughts, and of the influence of their language and civilization on our own.

Latin is not "dead"; it lives in the romance languages and in a majority of our English words.

The laboratory is used by physics and chemistry classes . . . well equipped with the necessary materials and apparatus. 20 Students in chemistry . . . 15, in physics. Teacher, Mr. Daulton.

With classes in general science, chemistry, physics, biology, and agriculture, Washington fulfills the scientific needs of all students, no matter what their ambitions might be. There are always three objectives in view: to gain an understanding of the scientific method and to apply it to life problems; to gain a broad knowledge of scientific facts; and to discover new fields of interest for leisure time pursuits.

The United States is fighting to overthrow forces that would discard all democratic principles. To help in this fight, students are learning what to expect in times of war. They are also learning the ways of scientific reasoning in order that the ideals of democracy might be perpetuated.

Mathematics, the science which deals with magnitudes, quantities, numbers, and their relationships, is universally taught in high schools. The following courses are taught at Washington: in the freshman year, algebra and business arithmetic; and in the sophomore year, plane geometry. All of these subjects are taught by Mr. Tulipan.

The value of mathematics is noted by the fact that it is applied in almost any subject in school, at home, or in the various fields of warfare.

He tells of the progress of the band . . . the many public appearances which have been so graciously applauded by the listeners; the learning of new and more difficult music; the buying of uniforms . . . all these and more, because music gives us that feeling of "Let's Go! Let's Fight! Let's Win!"

WORLD HISTORY
MRS. DAVENPORT

It has often been said that history repeats itself. From the beginning of time, there have been wars. Always there has been chaos for both victim and victor. Is there really a victor in any war?

One aim of the social science department is to show students the mistakes made in governments and civilizations of the past with the hope that these students will help build a better world in the future. The various classes cover nearly every period in the development of civilization. World history is required in the sophomore year. American history, a junior subject, concerns the growth of our nation. Finally, in American government, American democracy, civics, and economics, the specific problems of a democratic government are discussed.

These subjects will be of priceless value to the American of the future, for the students of today are the citizens of tomorrow.

The buying of defense stamps and bonds was stressed in every issue; for this theme, art editor, James Hamilton, provided some very timely original drawings.

The "all school" play was presented February 17 under the direction of Miss Hagen and Mr. Daulton. The cast of 12 had representatives from all classes. At the "all clear" signal, the profits totaled $68.02, the entire amount being set aside for the purchase of library books.

As to the plot . . .

Gaye (Pigtails) Brooks, an orphan girl, came to live with the Campbells, a well-to-do family. Mrs. Campbell, a society matron, was horrified at the thought of a "crude" girl from Montana living in her home. After many humorous and dramatic episodes, Pigtails finally won the respect and admiration of the entire Campbell family.

Exhibition at Scioto County Tourney:
Washington 39 Wheelersburg 30
District Tournament at Athens:
Washington 37 Portsmouth 51

Although Washington is a Class "A" high school, its basketball schedule for 1941-42 in the Scioto County League included eight class "B" teams and one Class "A" team . . . Wheelersburg. In addition to the eighteen county league games that the Senators went through with no defeats, they played New Boston, Portsmouth East, Central Catholic, Dayton Roosevelt, Xenia Central, and Western Rural.

The Senators won twenty-three games during the season while dropping three. Two of these defeats were to Portsmouth East by one-point each, and the other loss was suffered at the hands of strong Xenia Central. Our boys were handicapped severely at mid-year as Cliff Williams passed the age limit and Alfred Nelson was graduated. The loss of these two boys, who had played excellent ball the first semester, had a marked effect on the team as was shown by the defeat at Athens.

It is easily seen by his record on the next page that Lefty Nelson was the "spark-plug" of the team, but his record would not have been possible without the great team work of all his fellow-players.

The tight defensive strength of the Senators was due to the sparkling work of Al Nelson, Don and Marvin Mitchell who held the opponents' scores in check.

Eugene Shepherd gained many points under the pressure and his superior rebounding was always a vital factor in the winning of games. Forwards Cliff Williams and Elwood Kegley also came through in the scoring field.

First-line reserves . . . "Cotton" Davis, Paul Schwamberger, and Bill Singleton held up the reserve strength of the varsity in the final games of the season. They will probably "lead the pack" next year.

The Varsity Ten

TOPS IN BALL HANDLING

Washington High School has every right to be proud of Glenn "Lefty" Nelson. During the past season he scored 614 points . . . the highest number of points that has ever been scored in the state of Ohio. The former high mark was 484 points. In eleven different games, Lefty scored more points than the entire opposition.

Last year as a Junior, Lefty scored 381 points, making his total for the two years 995 points. This scoring ability and his general playing ability caused Lefty to be named as a forward on the All Ohio Second Team. According to the newspapers, he was not placed on the first team because the other players had met tougher competition.

His shooting ability was uncanny. He was equally good with long shots and lay-up shots. His field goal shooting average was approximately 34% for the two years . . . an average which is exceptionally good for any high school athlete.

Lefty is not only a basketball player; he is a top-notch baseball player as well. Being left-handed makes him a natural first baseman. He also pitches occasionally and his hitting is superb. Last fall, in 16 times at bat, he walked twice, hit three home runs, three triples, four doubles, and two singles. He can play on our team anytime.

This spring, after school is out, Lefty has an opportunity to go to Cincinnati for a try-out with the Reds. He has the stuff to make a success and here's hoping he makes the best of it. We feel sure that he will.

The Reserve record of 22 wins and 3 losses for the 1941-42 season proved this team's superiority as they won all games from non-league teams, and tied with Valley for the Reserve championship of the Scioto County League. Teams not participating in the league that the Reserves played included New Boston, Portsmouth East, Central Catholic, and Western Rural.

In mid-season, a preliminary game to Dayton Roosevelt was played with Valley; this netted our boys a win of 18-14. At the end of the season they were defeated by Valley in the Western Reserve Tourney at Lucasville, largely because our first string reserves had been moved up to the varsity for tournament action.

Cotton Davis and Paul Schwamberger were high scorers, their work being backed up in fine style by guards Bill Singleton and Brownie Davis and center Red Bellomy. Substitutes giving strength in reserve were Creech, McCall, Cooper, O'Dell, Smalley, and Smith.
